Assignment 4

Informal Assignments
  • Exploring the vlog genre
  • Use the suggestions in the workbook to help students more towards more critical reflections
  • In-class time working on layout/design/script of vlog. This will include peer review time.

Reflective Vlog
  This assignment will have two parts.
  First, using the genre of a vlog, critically reflect on your development as a writer over the course of the semester. As you reflect, you will want to consider how this course has challenged and/or changed your understanding of what writing is and how other forms of writing influence the composing process.
  In addition to reflecting on your development as a writer, choose 2,000 words worth of a work you’ve done previously in this semester and revise. In other words, apply your reflection to your earlier work. In order to capture this second part in your vlog, you may wish to include clips of your revision process as you talk us through the choices you’re making. This website will tell you how to record your desktop. You may also wish to include videos, music, animations...etc. to help you share/tell your story about your writing over the course of the semester and how that story is shaping the revisions you’re making. Assume your audience is your classmates or future students.
